

Determining Your Spouse's Primary Health Insurance Coverage

Other Available Group Insurance Becomes Primary

If you choose to enroll in the Anthem Blue Cross PPO plan or Oxford POS plan and your spouse is eligible for medical, hospital and/or prescription benefits through his/her employer, your spouse must enroll in that insurance as their primary coverage as soon as it is available, regardless of cost. The Motion Picture Industry (MPI) Health Plans then will serve as secondary coverage for medical, hospital and prescription drug benefits while remaining primary coverage for dental and vision benefits.

In order to ensure proper payment of your family's health claims, please complete and return to MPI the applicable forms listed below. Once the order of benefits has been determined you will receive a notification from MPI.

If you fail to submit the required Forms, or if it is determined that your spouse is eligible for insurance through his/her employer but did not enroll, MPI will immediately terminate all coverage for your spouse. If it is determined that MPI inappropriately paid claims for your spouse, you will be held liable for any necessary reimbursement.

Determining Primary Coverage for Dependent Children

If your spouse's birthday falls first in the calendar year and there is no premium cost to enroll children in his/her employer group health plan, eligible dependent children must also be enrolled in the insurance available to your spouse through his/her employer. If they are not enrolled, MPI will provide no coverage for such dependent children.

Additionally, it is your responsibility to notify MPI of any change to your spouse's insurance or employment status. Failure to do so can result in termination of coverage and denial of claims.
